Forest Fires.

TROY, N. Y., May 3.—Five buildings of the Chateaugay Iron Co., at Bradley's Pond burned. It is reported a man and woman and two children perished.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., May 3.—The entire village of Gilman's Depot on the Port Jervis and Monticello railroad burned yesterday afternoon and last night. The residents were obliged to flee for their lives, unable to save anything. Not over half a dozen houses are standing in a radious of five miles. The fire is still burning. Gilman's tannery and saw mills are destroyed. The whole settlement was owned by him. Loss $100,000. Two railroad bridges burned.

ALTOONA, Pa., May 3.—The town of Brisbin, Clearfield county, was totally consumed by fire yesterday afternoon; also large lumber yards and mill of Hoover, Hughes & Co. Loss estimated $150,000 to $200,000; fully insured.

EMPORIUM, Pa., May 3.—Forest fires in this section yesterday swept over at least 50,000 acres, destroying as far as ascertained four large mills, some thirty other buildings, besides an immense number of lumber logs. The loss to mill property and lumber amounts to over half a million.

HONEDALE, Pa., May 3. The fire which destroyed the neighboring town of Brisbin is supposed to have originated half a mile west of Hoover Hughes' mill, where some Hungarians set fire to brush to clear a piece of ground for cultivation. The wind carried the flames to the saw mills and they were quickly swept away. The progress of the fire was then very rapid through the town and the inhabitants were compelled to fly in every direction and in many cases without sufficient clothing. Losses definitely stated now amount to $300,000 and an estimate of the total puts the amount at $1,036,000. Hoover, Hughes & Co. lose $150,000. The number of families that are homeless and destitute is about one thousand, most of whom are suffering for the necessaries of life. Supplies are coming in slowly and the demand is great. Mrs. Donovan was burned to death. Insurances are much less than losses. Subscriptions have been liberally given. In neighboring towns 2,000 persons have been provided with provisions during the day. The sufferers are mainly poor miners, who were at work in the mines when their houses were laid in ruin.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 3.—Latest reports here show the forest fires at various places have been extensive and very destructive. Along the Philadelphia and Erie railroad from Driftwood west to Kane heavy fires were in progress last night. Many cattle are reported surrounded by flames. The town of Thompson was wholly destroyed, including a saw mill. Loss over $100,000. Seventeen houses were burned in Arnot; loss $15,000. Two million feet of lumber was also burned. The fire is fierce about about Morris and Antrim. Considerable pine lumber was among the property burned in different parts of Tioga county. The saw mill of Andrew Kahl at Spring Run, Elk county, was destroyed with two million feet of lumber.

Converse's Substitute.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Representative Converse has prepared the following amendment, which he will offer as a substitute for the Morrison bill. He made an attempt in the house to-day to have it printed in the Record, but Morrison interposed an objection. Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert as follows:

SECTION 1. That sections 1, 3, 4 and 6 of the act to reduce internal revenue taxation and for other purposes, approved March 3d, '83, be and the same hereby is repealed.

SEC. 2. That manufacturers of chemicals and chemical and pharmaceutical preparations shall be allowed to withdraw alcohol from bond in quantities not less than 10 barrels without payment of internal revenue tax for manufacturing purposes under such regulations as may be prescribed by the secretary of the treasury; and a like privilege shall be extended persons desiring alcohol for mechanical purposes.

SEC. 3. There shall be a reduction of ten per centum of the duties which now are or hereafter may be provided by law on all merchandise imported into the United States from any foreign country in vessels on the American registry for a period not less than ten years from the taking effect of this act and until otherwise ordered by law; provided the provisions of this section shall not be operative till such time as requisite notice shall be served upon foreign governments under treaty stipulations, which the executive is hereby requested to serve, and until such period has elapsed after such service as is provided for in such treaties; at which time or times as the case may be the president shall issue his proclamation giving notice of the taking effect thereof.

SEC. 4. That the rate of duty on three several classes of wool, hair, from the alpaca goat and other animals as are now classified by the law, shall be restored to what it was on the three corresponding classes at the time of the passage of the act to reduce internal revenue taxation and for other purposes approved March 3d, '83.

SEC. 5. That sections 2,027 and 3,028, revised statutes be and the same are hereby repealed, and hereafter there shall be no abatement of duty on account of damage from any cause whatever.

SEC. 4. That schedule "C" of the act to reduce internal revenue taxation, and for other purposes, approved March 3d, '83, be amended and changed in the following particulars: Skelp iron, shared or rolled; sheet iron, common or black, thinner than one inch and one-half and not thinner than No. 20 wire gauge, 1 1-10 cents per pound; thinner than No. 20 wire gauge and not thinner than No. 25 wire gauge, 1 3-10 cents per pound; thinner than No. 25 wire gauge and not thinner than No. 29 wire gauge, 1 7-10 cents per pound; thinner than No. 29 wire gauge and all iron commercially known as common or black tagger's iron, whether put up in boxes or bundles 1.1 cents per pound; and provided that on all such iron and steel sheets or plates aforesaid and excepting on what are known commercially as tin plates, terne plates and tagger's tin and hereafter provided for when galvanized or coated with zinc or spelter or other metal or any alloy of these metals, three-fourths of one cent per pound additional; polished, planished or ganged sheet iron or sheet steel by whatever name designated 2½ cents per pound, provided that plate or sheet or tagger's iron by whatever name designated other than polished, planished or glanced, herein provided for, which has been pickled or coated by acid or by any other material or process, which is cold rolled, shall pay one quarter of one cent per pound more duty than the corresponding gauges of common black sheet or taggers iron, iron or steel sheets, or plates or taggers iron coated with tin, lead or with a mixture of which these metals are component parts, by dipping or any other process and commercially known as tin plate, terne plates and taggers tin, two and two-tenths cents per pound. Corrugated or crimped sheet iron or steel, two and five-tenths cents per pound. Lead ore and lead dross, one cent per pound; lead in pigs and bars, molten and old refuse lead run into blocks and bars, and old scrap lead fit only to be remanufactured, 1¼ cents per pound; lead in sheets, pipes or shot, 2¼ cents per pound. Iron or steel rivets, screws, nails and fence wire rods, round, in coils or loops, not lighter than number five wire gauge, valued at 3½ cents or less per pound, one cent per pound. Iron or steel, flat with longitudinal ribs for the manufacture of fencing, one cent per pound.

SEC. 7. The following articles, when imported, shall be exempt from duty: Phosphorus, magnesia sulphate of, Epsom salts, potash chlorate of, nitrate of ammonia, muriate of sal. ammonia, baryta sulphate of or barytes manufactured, soda, soda ash, soda sal or soda crystals, hydrate or caustic, sulphate known as salt cake, crude or refined or glauber salts, soda silicate of or other alkaline silicate, crude borax and lineal strontian, nitrate of strontian, muriate of currants, scants or others.

SEC. 8. All dutiable material imported into the United States for manufacture and afterwards exported in manufactured goods or merchandise shall be entitled to a rebate of duty so paid except 10 per cent, under such rules and regulations as may be provided by the secretary of the treasury.

SEC. 9. All acts or part of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect on the 1st day of July, 1884.

The Walking Match.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The score at 9 p. m. was: Fitzgerald 610 miles, Rowell 602, Fanchot 566¼, Noreman 545 1-5, Herty 538¾, Elson 525½. The match is ended. Fitzgerald braced in the early afternoon and for a couple of hours maintained his lead. He fell off again, however, about 4 p. m. and acted very groggy. After this Fitzgerald and Rowell had frequent spurts and often passed one another. At 6 p. m. there were between 5,000 and 6,000 people in the garden. Fitzgerald made the six hundredth mile at 5.20 and it was greeted with the greatest enthusiasm. Cheer after cheer rent the air, caps and hats were flung into the air and handkerchiefs were waved by many people. Fitzgerald was then four miles and three laps ahead of Rowell. He then took up the fear very coolly. He finished his 601st mile before retiring. He had only been out of sight six minutes when Rowell pushed out on the track. Fitzgerald heard of this and jumped up and immediately went after the Englishman. This caused another outburst of cheers. When Hazael made the previous record of 600 miles in six days he completed his task about 9.30 o'clock in the evening. Fitzgerald beat the record for that distance by over four hours. During the evening Fitzgerald was presented with a silver goblet filled with gold. He carried this to Rowell, but he paid little attention to the gift. Rowell completed his 600th mile at 6.53, beating Hazael's record by two hours, eighteen minutes and 35 seconds. Peter Duryea, Rowell's backer, gave up the contest at 7 o'clock. He attributed Rowell's defeat to a badly sprained left ankle from which his man had been suffering two days, and wanted to make another match with Fitzgerald. He will let Fitzgerald name the time, the amount to be over $5000 a side. Two large floral emblems were presented Fitzgerald during the evening. They were borne in front of him around the track, Fitzgerald following and waving the flag of Erin.

Preparations have been made in Long Island for the reception of Fitzgerald. He will be received by the mayor and aldermen and tendered the freedom of the city. The entire police and fire department with members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will meet him at the ferry and escort him to his home in Ravenswood. Wealthy citizens will present him with a mansion and it is said he will receive an important municipal appointment.

Texas Floods.

GALVESTON, May 3.—Later reports from southeastern Texas indicate considerable damage by floods. Many small streams are higher than ever known. In some instances every bridge across the streams are swept away. The rainfall at Houston for the past twenty-four hours is over five inches. The heavy fall extended as far west as El Paso. In a large portion of the flooded district cotton is retarded from three to four weeks growth.

Guilty Red Men.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 3.—The Journal's Miles City special says: In the trial of Black Wolf, the Cheyenne chief, and accessories for burning the Anderson ranch, Black Wolf was found not guilty. Howling Wolf, White Bear and two others pleaded guilty amid a scene of excitement, as it is understood they did this to save others as guilty as they. Each will be sentenced to five years.

BURIED ALIVE.

Sacrifice of a Life by the Caving of a Well.

No Certainty as to the Identity of the Victim.

The Body Not Recovered—Work Progressing.

Yesterday afternoon between two and three o'clock while Cy Mansfield with two or three men in his employ, were engaged in repairing a well at the Kensington fruit farm in the northeastern part of the city an accident occurred that resulted fatally. A short time after the accident occurred a representative of the GAZETTE was upon the ground and ascertained the particulars. From what was learned it appears that Mr. Mansfield, who had the contract for repairing the well, used for the irrigation of the farm referred to, employed to assist him a man boarding at the Empire house who was in search of employment and whose name he did not learn. Work was proceeded with during the morning, and in the afternoon this man went down into the well to repair the curbing, which was rotten. While engaged in this work the curbing gave way and the earth caved, carrying with it the man to the contractor unknown. Immediate steps were taken to release him, but it was ascertained in a short space of time that relief from death was almost beyond consideration. The well, six feet square and forty-five feet deep, had caved in curbing and all covering the victim to a depth of at least twenty-five feet. Hopes were entertained that he had not been carried down by the mass of earth, but these hopes were soon dispelled when it was found that the earth and debris were covered with water.

Work was, however, prosecuted with diligence but without avail and at 4 o'clock it was considered that the man was beyond hopes of relief. Late last night a force of men was still at work removing the earth from the well, but at the time of going to press the body of the man had not been found.

From what we can learn the victim is a comparative stranger in Colorado Springs, having come here only a day or two ago. He was found at the Empire house by Mr. Mansfield and being in need of employment was engaged by him as a worker at the well. The proprietor of the house says that he did not register when he came there on Thursday night, and he was unable to give any idea as to what his name was. Yesterday while walking to dinner with Mr. Mansfield, the man told Mr. Mansfield that his home was in Massachusetts, but that he had lately come from Texas. Since leaving home he had been in Australia, California, Arizona and New Mexico. In the course of conversation he told Mr. Mansfield that he had left a good home in Boston, Massachusetts, to make a fortune in the west. At home he was a locomotive fireman and obtained a good salary, but since that time he had undergone hardships, and although he had made a living he had not prospered in business. He spoke of his ups and downs and how he had pawned in New Mexico a gold watch, given him by an uncle, to help him along. As a reason for working he said that he wanted to procure "a stake" that would take him back to his New England home in October where he knew that he would be among friends and have a competence that would give him a fresh start in life.

A gentleman in the employ of John Courter seems confident that the victim of the accident is Jack Whalan, of Boston, Massachusetts, who has been in the employ of a ranchman named Himebaugh, of Castle Rock, Colorado. If this be the person this gentleman says that he has wealthy relatives in Boston. Another man with whom the GAZETTE representative talked said that he had a classmate in Boston by the name of Jack Whalen who was a sea-faring man, and from the fact that the victim had been in Australia he thought perhaps that it might be the same person.

It is known that the man has in his possession some money and papers that will, when unearthed, fully establish his identity. An investigation of the pockets of his coat, left on the fence near the well, disclosed nothing that would give the least clue as to who he was.

XLVIII Congress.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—On motion of Morrison the order for the evening session to-night was vacated. The house then went into committee of the whole on the bill amending the Chinese immigration act. Henley spoke in support of the bill. Rice said the substance of the bill was contained in the 15th amendment, which applied the provisions of the law to Chinese, who are subjects of China or any other foreign power. That was all there was in the bill that was not puerile and frivolous. It was the "be all and end all" of the bill. It was intended to exclude English Chinese from the United States. Where was the treaty right to do that? How long would England keep her iron clads from bombarding our cities if the United States should refuse her subjects, Chinese though they were, the right to set foot on our shores? Did the gentlemen think the English government at Hong Kong would sit down and give Chinese sailors in English vessels the ridiculous certificate which this bill required? Were the gentlemen ready here and now to enact a law when its only provision would either be ignored by England or would lead to war with that country? The bill was petty in its details, presumptous in its attempts, and impossible as to execution. This country ought to cultivate friendly relations with the Chinese in order to cultivate the advantages of trade and commerce.

Glascock defended the bill from Rice's criticisms and expressed amazement at the misapprehension which existed in eastern states as to the Chinese character. Notwithstanding the assertions of the gentleman from Massachusetts there was not an amendment proposed to the law that was not based on some sound, substantial reason.

Skinner, of California, said the purpose of the bill was to perfect the law enacted two years ago and remedy defects that were found to exist in it, and defended the propriety of that legislation on moral and religious grounds.

Hill opposed the measure as being repugnant to the free institutions of the country and denounced the inquisitorial system which was adopted towards Chinese as more insulting than Russia adopted towards persons coming into her territory in the times of dynamite terror.

Cassidy said no Chinaman came here as other immigrants did, because they loved liberty and hated oppression.

Tully supported the bill and said if the gentleman from Massachusetts (Rice) would reside for a while in California he would change his views on the subject. He stated his personal experience with Chinese to show that they cared nothing for American institutions.

Kean and Lyman opposed the bill.

The bill was then read by sections for amendments.

Rice offered several amendments, which were voted down.

Brumm offered an amendment applying the provisions of this bill as far as practicable to persons from whatever nation imported to this country under any system of contract. Ruled out on point of order.

On motion of Hammond an additional section was agreed to providing that nothing herein shall be construed to affect any prosecutions or other proceedings in the civil or criminal courts begun under the act to which this is amendatory.

Rice moved to amend the title so as to read, "an act to violate our treaty stipulation with China and other nations." Lost.

The committee then rose and the bill passed; yeas 184, nays 13. The negative vote was cast by Adams, Illinois; Brewer, N. Y.; Browne, Indiana; Everhart, Henderson, Illinois; Kean, Lyman, Price, Rice, Skinner, N. Y.; Smalls and Spooner.

Adjourned.

A Steamship Lost.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Austin Baldwin & Co., agents of State Line steamships, this morning received a dispatch from Glasgow as follows: "Steamer Devon, New York for Bristol, picked up April 27th two life boats of the State of Florida without occupants or gear. A sailing vessel bound west signaled the steamer City of Rome, April 23d, latitude 46, longitude 42, that she had the ship wrecked crew of a State Line steamer on board. The City of Rome arrived in Liverpool April 27th from New York." The State of Florida was 4,000 tons; built at Glasgow in 1879.

Among the passengers of the State of Florida were Mrs. P. Ward, Cleveland; Henry Wood, Miss Lillian V. Wood, Mrs. E. Wood, Miss May Shackleton, of Ohio; Walter King, James G. Graham, of Canada; James Cruikshank Braddock, of Pennsylvania, Andrew Tarus, Thomas Williamson, Thos. Taylor, jr., Miss Amy Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. T. Taylor, Mrs. Anna Taylor, Miss Ada Tyler, Abraham Williamson, of Chicago; George Eddington, A. Bethune, of Toronto.

GLASGOW, May 3.—The manager of the State line believes there was an accidental explosion of dynamite on the State of Florida. It is believed dynamiters were among the passengers.

Dynamiters Arraigned.

BIRMINGHAM, April 3.—Daly, Egan and McDonnell were arraigned in police court today on the charge of treason and felony. Daly was defiant and McDonnell dejected. The prisoners are closely guarded. Detectives described how they had been tracking Egan and Daly since October. It appeared from the evidence that prior to the recent meetings at Birmingham town hall addressed by the Marquis of Salisbury and Joseph Chamberlain, letters were received by the authorities containing threats that dynamite bombs would be thrown under the speakers' platform. Special precautions were taken to guard against this. Daly was arrested shortly before the Birmingham election. Bombs were found in his possession, intended to be exploded among campaign gatherings. The prisoners were remanded one week.

Law vs. Liquor.

WICHITA, KA., May 3.—Kirby chapel, belonging to the Methodist denomination in this city, was burned to the ground at midnight. Fire was also kindled at the base of the steeple of the Presbyterian church. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary originating from the enforcement of the prohibitory liquor law. The owner of a large skating rink who had rented his place for a temperance convention was anonymously notified this evening to cancel the lease with that organization. The barn of an active prohibitionist was fired recently and shade trees of another ruined. The excitement is intense. It is not believed that any of the late liquor dealers did this thing, but that it was done by irresponsible parties. The church burned was valued at $15,000. The library of Rev. J. W. Phillips, pastor, very valuable, was entirely consumed.

Fine Stock for Colorado.

SEDALIA, MO., May 3. Joel B. Gentry & Co., this county, sold to-day 614 head of short horn and other high grade cattle and horses for an aggregate of $34,000. Coppinger & Warren, Gunnison, Colorado, were the purchasers.

A Gold Strike.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 3.—The Tribune's Glendive, Montana, special says: There is a great excitement here over the discovery of gold at Long Tree gulch, sixty miles north, in paying quantities.

Fatal Explosion.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., April 3.—The boiler of the Whitney Marble works at Gouverneur exploded this forenoon and killed five men and fatally injured two. The building is a total wreck.

THE RECENT OUTRAGE.

Special Meeting of the Council Held Last Night.

In Compliance with the Request of the Mass Meeting

The City Offers a Reward of One Thousand Dollars.

A special meeting of the city council was called last night for the purpose of considering the question of offering a reward for the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators of the recent outrage at the Crawford house. After a short executive session the meeting was called to order by Mayor Humphrey, and the following aldermen responded to roll call: Hemenway, Draper, Bent, Jones, Hughes, Strickler, Ralstin and Farrar.

Mayor Humphrey said that there was a citizens' committee present who would be given the privilege of addressing the council. Mr. Steele, the chairman of the committee appointed at the mass meeting Friday night, then presented the resolutions adopted at that meeting and which were given in full in the GAZETTE yesterday morning. In presenting these resolutions Mr. Steele said the committee had no desire to encumber the actions of the council or in any way interfere with any plans made by them or to intimate that enough was not being done. It was well, he thought, to have the council know that they were backed by the people.

Mr. Kennedy, also a member of the committee, stated that he was mover of the motion adopted that the reward be not less than $1,000, but he felt that if $2,000 had been asked for the meeting would have willingly assented to it. He said that he was of the opinion that it ought to be at least $2,000 and if necessary the citizens ought to spend $5,000. Mr. Kennedy advised that the reward be offered for the arrest and indictment and not the arrest and conviction of those complicated. With this understanding the officers would have more of a stimulation to take hold and ferret out the matter.

Mr. Hooker, another member of the committee, said that it was not only the one who applied the torch that the reward was supposed to cover but also the instigators of the outrage. If there are those who hire assassins we want them as well.

On the motion of Alderman Ralstin the resolutions presented were received and placed on file.

Mr. Ralstin also moved that in order to bring the question before the council, he would move that the mayor be instructed to offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the perpetrators of the outrage, or $500 for their arrest and indictment. This motion received a second from Mr. Hemenway, and was unanimously adopted.

Dr. Strickler thought that it might be well to authorize the mayor to expend any money apart from the reward for the apprehension of the criminals, if he deemed it necessary.

It was concluded that he had that power without the motion.

No further business coming up for consideration the meeting adjourned.

APACHE CHARACTER.

The Purpose of Their Raids—A Keen Sense of Humor.

BLACK HAWK, N. M., April 29, 1884.

Regular Correspondence to the GAZETTE.

I have now been in this territory a little more than two month. During this time we have had frequent rumors and reports of Indians being "off the reservation," and usually the exact number of missing Indians has been given, and in but one instance did the number exceed fifty. These reports always cause more or less anxiety and alarm for the safety of prospectors who may be wandering over the country, and for small unprotected settlements. But most of these reports were soon after contradicted; the missing Indians turning up on the reservation, where they are harmless. Other and more alarming reports have spread during the two months I have been here; reports of Indians having been seen at such a place, and that men have been killed, giving number, place or places and sometimes names. There was probably truth in some of these stories, even to the killing, and if all were true it would have been but a mild repetition of the nalities in past years in these territories—New Mexico and Arizona. Depredations and murders committed by Indians, rustlers, cowboys, and by other classes of the population when influenced by whisky, have occurred so frequently during the past, that they are looked upon much as every day matters, and are scarce over until they are given to the past with little further thought. For this reason it is difficult to get particulars or truth, or whether or not there was any truth in a report which excited the people as for a moment, and therefore I can not say positively whether or not the Indians have committed any depredations or murders this year. In either case this is a most peaceful year with the Apache.

The northern Indians seldom, or never, go on the war-path except in protection of country, for redress of grievance, or against a hereditary foe, and are somewhat disposed to be friendly with other tribes and people. Not so the Apaches. So far as I can learn here, and before coming on their range, they never make war or go upon the war-path, and have no wrongs to avenge, or country to defend. Where they came from, or how they originated is not known. When they first appeared in Arizona, the valleys were probably thickly settled with a peaceful, semi-civilized agricultural people, as the ruins of dwellings and irrigation canals so indicate, but it is not known, and even not likely that the Apache drove these out for the purpose of possessing the land; if they were then as now, and as when found by the whites, they did not do it intentionally.

Of the prospectors who entered Arizona in search of gold, twenty to thirty years ago, many fell a prey to the Apaches; and there has not been a year since in which Americans and Mexicans have not fallen by their hands; and there are portions of the territory even now where it would be certain death for small parties to enter, yet I cannot learn that the Apaches have ever complained of whites taking their country, or of their ever having declared war, or gone upon the war-path. I do not know that they claim the country, or any country or lands as theirs. From all I can learn, they look upon land, and all land as free to all; and not only the land, but property of all kinds, and even life, may be taken by all who are able to do so. I see but one designation that can be given of them: A tribe of murderers and robbers; and this they have probably ever been.

They delight in waylaying, and in stealthfully crawling up upon the unsuspecting prospector, and fortunate is the lone prospector who escapes if once seen by them. Their annual raids of past years appear to have been for the twofold object of sport and plunder, as, beyond the mere killing, there was nothing warlike about them, and, seemingly were devoid of any such intent, and were undertaken without provocation. Instance, as has been known in years past, a party of from ten to fifty will set out murdering and robbing in Sonora, and in time the Mexican troops would gather and make it unsafe to continue longer there. They then make a rapid shift to other parts, and a few days after are in the valley of the Rio Grande murdering the peaceful Pueblo Indians, having taking in any unprotected and unsuspecting whites and small white settlements they come across on their way, and a week or two later, are safely hidden in the mountains of western Chihuahua or eastern Sonora, having met with no loss themselves on the whole excursion; and beside the sport, have been successful in gathering horses, clothing, arms, ammunition and money; were nothing out, as they fed upon the herds of cattle which are found in every valley in which there is water, and there have their jollification before returning to the reservation. I cannot hear that they have ever attempted to drive settlers from the country, and they probably have no desire to do so. If that were their object, by moving in larger bodies they could have made a clean sweep of the country as far as they went, but instead of this, seem to have a care not to kill too many in any one place lest they should frighten all settlers from that part. They never knowingly expose their own lives. Their raids, as I have said, appear to be for sport and plunder, and this only. Where the game is human, the sport is the highest possible, and from the spoils every want of the Indian is met.

It has probably been ever thus with them, and that they at one time lived by plundering the agricultural people who inhabited the valleys where they now range, who, for protection, built strong houses, the only entrances to which were from the top, or built on inaccessible cliffs which could only be scaled by niches cut into the rock; and if so, it is not at all probable that they purposely drove them from the country or had any desire to exterminate them, for this would be destroying their living. As they now live off of our government and by plunder they should welcome ranchers, and so too in the days of the Aztecs. To escape the Apaches, the Aztecs and cliff dwellers many have voluntarily forsook houses and lands and moved to other parts. Until the last year or two the peaceful Pueblos on the Rio Grande lived in constant dread of the Apaches, who raided upon them as they now do upon isolated settlements on either side of the Mexican border line.

When in need of money with which to buy arms and ammunition they steal stock, drive it over the line and sell, and with the money they can always find traders who will sell them anything they want. They of course receive but a small portion of the real value of the stock, whether it be in money or trade, and I am told that they have paid as high as two dollars apiece for cartridges. As they are always able to procure all they need it would be a great saving to the ranchmen if our government would issue cartridges to them the same as clothing.

Of late years there is much sympathy expressed for the poor Indian in the eastern states. This is all well when given to the ideal Indian they have there, but pity would be rather out of place on the Apaches. They have no ground for complaint. Never before could they have had so much reason to be happy and contented as at present. Formerly they killed and plundered from necessity, in order to live; now they are provided for by the government. Should life on the reservation become tiresome to them, and they want a little exercise, they may help themselves to the first horses they find and ride over the country, killing a few Americans and Mexi-

We publish this morning a proclamation signed by Mayor Humphrey offering a reward for the capture of the party or parties concerned in the effort to blow up the Crawford house The council had already taken measures to secure the capture of the guilty parties and the offering of the public reward is an additional step

We publish a notice of a school meeting to be held on Monday to elect trustees to the school board. The vacancies are made by the expiration of the terms of office of Messrs J E. Humphrey and D W. Robbins Mr Humphrey has been on the school board since 1878 and is thoroughly familiar with our school affairs We trust he will be a candidate for re election Mr. Robbins was elected last year and has faithfully attended to his duties. Our school affairs are well managed and we see no reason for any change in the board

The friends of both Blaine and Arthur are claiming enough delegates already elected to carry the convention. Of course the claims are not correct Of the 800 delegates Edmunds will have at least 60, Sherman 30 and Logan 50 This is large enough to prevent either Arthur or Blaine having a majority on the first ballot and the Edmunds and Sherman men will have the balance of power They will use this power wisely and almost insure the nomination of a man the liberal element will support

The article by Mrs Helen Jackson in the [Century] on the Mormon question will give more real aid to the settlement of the Mormon question than most of the denunciatory literature that now abounds. The impression prevails too widely that Mormonism is simply immorality that force can eradicate It is more than this Some Mormons have the same sincerity and devotion that the most earnest followers of the purest religion have shown Simple force is impotent against this class The reader of Mrs Jackson's article will appreciate this in her sketch of the rise of Mormonism Force is undeniably demanded, but it will not make a perfect cure. Education and moral suasion are equally needed to banish Mormonism At the present time the attack on Mormonism has changed its ground The rapid increase in population in Utah has set in motion new influences The common school, the church, the local press have all joined the soldier and the judge in the warfare against our greatest social evil

The attack on Alderman Jones is most unjust His course in the council has been very conservative. In conversation he is quiet and moderate of speech He has not used the denunciatory language that so many citizens have used in public and in private There is nothing fanatical about him He is simply an honest man who does his duty quietly and resolutely His public career here may be briefly described Previous to the spring of 1883, he had taken no part in politics At that time his friends desired him to become a candidate for alderman Before he was elected, he pledged himself to do what he could to execute our liquor ordinance The chief objection to him seems to be that he has kept his pledge We are aware that it is a somewhat unique thing for a politician to keep the pledges he made before election after it. But still it is not an erratic course. If an unusual one and does not earn for one the title of either crank or fanatic Shortly after the meeting of the new council of 1883 a petition was presented from the ministerial association asking the enforcement of the liquor ordinance It was referred to the police committee, of which Mr Jones was chairman It called forth a written report from Mr Jones which did not please anyone His report spoke of the difficulties of enforcing the laws To remove some of these difficulties, he proposed certain amendments to the liquor ordinance These were considered some three months and consultation was had with druggists and others as to the wisdom of the change The amendments were adopted after much delay Later prosecutions were begun and not until then was there any criticism of Mr Jones He has had the very honorable reputation of being the alderman most responsible for the prosecutions In the council he has been a valuable member from a purely business point of view He has been regular and prompt in attendance on the meetings of the council and committees He has an intelligent comprehension of the public questions While much credit is due the mayor and council for the prompt action in preserving our water rights to Ruxton s canon, Mr Jones deserves the most credit He gave much valuable time to it and had general oversight of the work His services have been valuable in every way He has been a conscientious, wise, faithful public servant who deserves well of this city His present persecution is due entirely to his disinterested services to this city Its success would put a premium on inefficiency and faithlessness to pledges

The first and second of the promised three volumes of the History of Philadelphia have lately appeared The work deals exhaustively with the [illegible] from its earliest days

The Newport Historical Magazine now four years old has changed its name to the Rhode Island Historical Magazine and will hereafter occupy the broader field which its title implies

General Gordon s forthcoming book Reflections Suggested in Palestine 1883 is said to be written in a graphic and vigorous style It comprises a series of spiritual thoughts on the greater Scripture truths

A second edition of the Delsarte System of Oratory by two pupils of the master, has been brought out by E S Werner, of Albany The volume is illustrated and contains Delsarte s essay on "The Attributes of Reason

What is described as a mirror of Philadelphia society in the shape of a novel called "Miss Nancy will soon be published in the Quaker City Even the publisher, it is reported, does not know the names of the authors who are two young persons prominent in society

A second edition of Conkling s Guide to Mexico is just from the press The first edition of the book was published only about three months ago, but numerous changes have occurred since then in the construction of the new railways and the present edition has, consequently, been carefully revised throughout and brought down to the present date

The Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria, has undertaken an exhaustive work on Austria-Hungary It is to be an immense cyclopedia of useful knowledge It will deal with antiquities, history, literature, language, art, science, and a hundred other subjects How many volumes it may extend to, nobody has yet stated, nor is it at all likely that a corps of specialists, each working out a theory of his own for the satisfaction of a royal editor, will be found to err much on the side of brevity

M Darmesteter says of George Eliot that she possessed to a large degree those qualities with which her favorite characters are frequently endowed She herself was an accomplished housewife and model housekeeper to the end of her life It was ever her maxim to do well what ever her hand found to do Her handwriting and pronunciation were extraordinarily neat, the elegance of the former and the harmony of the voice became only apparent on a nearer acquaintance

The Hon G Hilton Scribner, ex secretary of the State of New York in a letter to Professor Nathan Sheppard, compiler of the new work Darwinisms stated by Darwin himself, writes as follows "You have rendered a great service to an immense class who now for the first time will be independent of his critics not only for what Darwin has and has not said but also may now compass the pith and meaning of his doctrines and philosophy I believe the publication is not only the most timely and important, but I shall be much mistaken if it does not have a great sale It will be invaluable as a book of reference

The new (Haworth) edition of Charlotte Bronte s Jane Eyre which is to be brought out by Robert M Lindsay, of Philadelphia will be ready in about a fortnight The paper, so far as a specimen page shows is excellent The type is large and handsome the margins broad and the size convenient "A newly etched portrait and eight other illustrations etched from authentic drawings of scenes described in the book have been prepared for this edition Only five hundred copies will be issued, and all will be numbered Seventy five of these copies will be printed on Whatman s paper, with duplicate signed proofs of the etchings on Japan paper

Charles Reade knew that death was coming and refused absolutely to meet it at Cannes No he said I feel myself breaking up and I wish to go home to die He bore the journey northward pretty well until reaching Calais where while lingering to obtain if possible a smooth sea and fair passage, the east wind brought back upon him that bronchial affection from which he had previously suffered and sent him to his house in Shepherd s bush in a mournful condition of prostration from which he never rallied The idea of his much loved dwelling and the [illegible] contained therein [illegible] This is the place which he called Naboth s Vineyard and the history of which he has related in characteristic fashion

Lord Cranbrook, in a memorandum of conversations with Christopher North written forty years ago and lately published quotes North as saying concerning Wordsworth, He was too dignified and self-dependent a character for Coleridge who always required sympathy and probably has expressed his feelings in the description of a friend with which he concludes John Anderson Wordsworth could not sufficiently bend to this weakness which he thought unmanly and hence the estrangement though Wordsworth still loved Coleridge as he did Coleridge him It was this weakness, and not pride or vanity, which led him to delight in talking, and when he had an attentive hearer he would enlarge on every subject with enthusiasm but if there were the slightest apathy or carelessness displayed it was curious to see how his voice died away at once And yet I am convinced that this was not love of display, but of having other minds in communion as it were with his own and when he felt that they were so he would impart to every object of conversation a hue and tinge of beauty which could not be surpassed

Laws of War in Ashantee

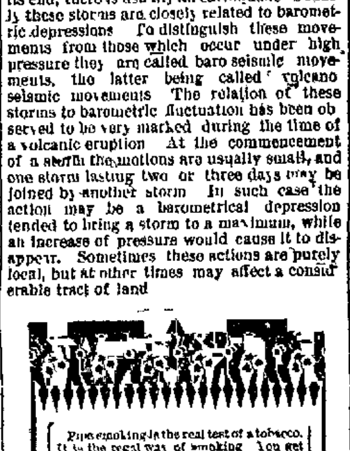

Longman s Magazine

The assumption that savage races are ignorant of all laws of war, or incapable of learning them, would seem to be based rather on our indifference about their customs than on the realities of the case But whatever value there may be in our own laws of war, in helping to constitute a real difference between savage and civilized warfare, the best way to spread the blessing of a knowledge of them would clearly be for the more civilized races to adhere to them strictly in all wars waged with their less advanced neighbors An English commander for instance, should no more set fire to the capital of Ashantee or Zululand for so paltry a pretext as the display of British power than he would set fire to Paris or Berlin, he should no more have villages or granaries burned in Africa or Afghanistan than he would in Normandy, and he should no more keep a Zulu envoy or truce bearer in chains than he would so deal with the bearer of a white flag from a Russian or Italian camp The reverse principle, which is yet in vogue, that with barbarians you must or may be barbarous, leads to some curious illustrations of civilized warfare when it comes in conflict with the less civilized races In one of the Franco Italian wars of the sixteenth century more than 2 000 women and children took refuge in a large mountain cavern, and were there suffocated by a party of French soldiers, who set fire to a quantity of wood, straw, and hay, which they stacked at the mouth of the cave, but it was considered so shameful an act that the Chevalier Bayard had two of the ringleaders hanged at the cavern s mouth Yet, when the French General Pelissier in this century suffocated the unresisting Algerians in their caves it was even defended as no worse than the shelling of a fortress, and there is evidence that guncotton was not infrequently used to blast the entrance to caves in Zulu land in which men, women and children had hoped to find shelter against an army which professed only to be warring with their king The following description of the way in which, in the Ashantee war, the English forces obtained native carriers for their transport service is not without its instruction in this respect "We took to kidnaping upon a grand scale Raids were made on all the Assin villages within reach of the line of march, and the men, and sometimes the women, carried off and sent up the country under guard, with cases of provisions Lieutenant [illegible] rendered immense service in this way. Having been for some time commandant of Accra, he knew the coast and many of the chiefs, and having a man of war placed at his disposal, he went up and down the coast landing continually having interviews with chiefs, and obtaining from them large numbers of men and women, or when this failed, landing at night with a party of soldiers, surrounding villages, and sweeping off the adult population, leaving only a few women to look after the children In this way, in the course of a month, he obtained several thousands of carriers"

Quaking Italy.

Nature

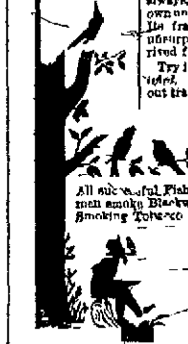

It would seem that the soil of Italy is in incessant movement, there being periods of excessive activity usually lasting about ten days Such a period may be called a seismic storm These storms are separated by periods of relative calms The storms have their greater regularity in winter and sharp maximums are to observed in spring and autumn In the midst of such a period, or at its end, there is usually an earthquake Usually these storms are closely related to barometric depressions To distinguish these movements from those which occur under high pressure they are called baro seismic movements, the latter being called volcano seismic movements The relation of these storms to barometric fluctuation has been observed to be very marked during the time of a volcanic eruption At the commencement of a storm the motions are usually small, and one storm lasting two or three days may be joined by another storm In such case the action may be a barometrical depression tended to bring a storm to a maximum, while an increase of pressure would cause it to disappear. Sometimes these actions are purely local, but at other times may affect a considerable tract of land cans here and there in diversion, or if in need of arms and ammunition, and live on the cattle herds the while. Should too many be off in these pleasure excursions at a time, or they be too protracted, there is danger of the troops interfering with their sports, and in this case it is necessary to detail a few of their number to act as scouts for the troops, and those can keep them posted in regard to their movements, and lead them into pre-arranged ambuscades where they may be slaughtered with impunity. Tiring of the sport they may at any time return to their reservation and have government protection against all who have suffered in the loss of friends and relatives, and who might otherwise do them harm.

APACHE CHARACTER.

This is but a fair presentation of the case; of what occurred a year ago. I do not see what more the Apaches can ask than they now have, or that they have any cause for complaint. They ask nothing more; make no complaints, so far as I know, and are content and happy.

That these murdering raiders are not war parties, and that they have no wish or intention of driving out settlers, is plain to be seen. They know where the boundary line between the United States and Mexico is and have taken advantage of it for their own safety by operating for the time on the side in which was the least danger to themselves. Frequently a raid on settlers and ranches is begun on one side of the line and extended far over on the other. They have been known to commence raids in the state of Sonora, pass diagonally through Arizona into New Mexico as far as the Rio Grande, and then turn south and disappear in the mountains of Chihuahua, leaving a trail of death the entire distance.

That these raids are for sport and plunder is further evident by their actions. In their fights with the Mexicans no prisoners are taken on either side, and they kill Mexicans on every opportunity, but do not always do so with Americans on this side of the line. Here, too, they seek diversion in other ways than in the mere act of killing. Last year, a band coming to a ranch house from which the people had made hasty flight, leaving the washing out, they dressed a cow up in drawers, sheets and pillow-cases, leaving things otherwise undisturbed. Another coming on a man unawares denuded him of his clothing, and marching him around for their amusement for a time, left him unharmed. They dislike sheep; and it is said they will at times, on coming across a herd, cut off the legs of a hundred or so at the knees and drive them around on the stumps.

Those who think there is no love of fun and sport in Indians, know little about them. They find amusement where white men would not think to look for it. Killing some Mexican freighters, they tied the bodies up in the wagons and fixed the poles, with which they drive their cattle, in their hands as though they were riding and driving, and leaving the oxen yoked to the wagons, so left them. They were so found some time after. They do not ask a life for a life as other Indians do. Killing is not avenged. In this they allow others all the liberty which they have themselves.

Yielding to a down east sentiment, that an Indian is an innocent childlike specimen of the human family, who needs special care and protection against their sons and brothers who come west, and that the general government must protect and take special care of the few rightful owners of the country who yet survive, and, if possible, avert the wrath of heaven from descending upon them and the nation for the sins of their blood-thirsty ancestor upon this people, Uncle Sam has laid off an extensive playground for them in a central place, and is taking special care to gather the poor creatures into it, from his condescension, and by a show of good things, attracting many from Mexico; has given them the armed protection of the government and supplies all their wants. This should relieve the conscience troubled east. It is, too, satisfactory to the Indians. They are relieved of care; may spend their lives rolling in the sand if they so wish, but tiring of this they can at any time steal away and go upon their favorite sport of man-hunting; make a circuit of several hundred miles and return to their reservation. The Apache should be happy, no doubt is happy.

The people of these territories do not see the deserts of the Apaches; dislike to be hunted as wild game by them and may protest.

Scalpers Fined.

DENVER, May 3.—The trial of J. B. Garland, C. C. Bischoff and R. L. Hirschberg, charged with violating the ticket brokers' ordinance, was concluded before Judge Mullaney in the police court this morning and resulted in the defeat of the scalpers, who were each fined $50 and costs.

Montana Republicans.

HELENA, May 3. At the Bozeman convention Blaine and Edmunds were united this morning and divided the delegation to Chicago. The delegates are Col. Wilbur F. Sanders, of Helena, and Lee Mandle, of Butte.

The Markets.

NEW YORK, May 3. Governments quiet; railways generally strong; state securities steady; stock market opened firm and higher and before 10.30 advanced 1/8 to 1 1/4, Central and Union Pacific and Western Union being the features. After the first call there was a weaker feeling, Union Pacific breaking 1 1/2, Central Pacific 1 3/8, and the general list 1/4 to 3/4. At 3 p. m. the market was firm again, but near the close sold down to 60 and this unsettled speculation once more. In the final sales Western Union returned to 60 3/4 and the market left off about steady. Compared with Friday's closing, prices are 1 1/4 per cent lower for Canada Southern, 1 for Northwestern, 3/4 higher for Denver, 1 1/4 for Wabash preferred, 3/4 for Central Pacific and 1/4 for Northern Pacific. Transactions 431,000 shares.

There was little of interest in the mining market, trading having been light and the tone weak. The sales included Navajo at 2.60; Standard 1.30 to 1.50, to 1.35, Sierra Nevada 2.10 to 2.60, Union Consolidated 2.15, Chrysolite 96, Harlem 35, Eureka 4.25, Horn Silver 6 7/8, Rappahannock 19.

MISS M. A. CARPENTER, Manager

Attend the gospel temperance meeting at the Y M C A. rooms at 4 30 this afternoon.

Mr T A Allen, of the stationer's department of the Denver & Rio Grande, was in the city yesterday

Quite a number of the sporting fraternity of this city will attend the race between Skinner and Stine at Denver to-day.

Duncan Bell, of Messrs Doudna & Bell, expects to start for the east early this week He will visit his former home in Canada.

Dr William Fowler and Mr Cunningham went to Denver last night to witness the Skinner Stine foot race, which takes place to-day

Rev Dr Lord will officiate in the Presbyterian church to-day Subject in the morning The Godhead in Christ, in the evening, We Complete in Him

Mr Ainsworth Brown yesterday obtained letters of patent from the chief office at Washington on a useful and important improvement on his window screen

Charles Craig, the artist, is now making a specialty of "sheep studies" He has recently turned out some excellent specimens that have been quickly purchased by our ranchmen

Mr J H Woodgate, formerly engaged in the boot shoe business in this city, passed south on the Denver & Rio Grande at noon yesterday on the way to his home at Montrose, Colo

Mr I I Jones announces through the columns of the GAZETTE that the great closing out sale will positively close by May 31st, and perhaps by May 15th He offers bargains never before given in Colorado Springs

Rev D W Moore of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, has been called home to Missouri by telegram on account of the illness of his wife His pulpit will be supplied to day by Rev T A McGill, of Philadelphia

At the Congregational church to day the communion of the Lord's Supper will be held in the morning and in the evening the pastor, Rev James B Gregg, will take as his subject "A Common Sense View of the Temperance Question"

Some warm words between Water Superintendent Carithers and William Seely resulted in blows yesterday morning on the public highway Marshal Hart notified them both to appear before Justice Pixley, which they did and were fined $5 and costs each

Several liquor cases under the city ordinance came up before Justice Pixley yesterday John Lomay's case was tried and decision reserved until Monday by the judge Continuances were granted in the cases against Mrs I E Burnham and Mrs Chas Stockbridge

Mr Charles Brower has resigned the management of the affairs of the Colorado Telephone company in this city, to take effect June 1st His successor, a Denver man thoroughly well acquainted with the business, has already been selected. Mr Brower contemplates going east as soon as relieved.

The annual election of trustees for school district No. 11 will take place at the high school building on Monday afternoon between the hours of three and six o'clock. There are two trustees to be elected to fill the vacancies caused by the expiration of the terms of Messrs J F Humphrey and D W Robbins

The next attraction at the opera house, one week from last night, will be the Bandman company in Romeo and Juliet The leading lady in the company is Louise Beaudet, a French actress of recognized merit She is well supported and during the past week has drawn large audiences at the Tabor Grand, Denver

The morning subject at the First M E church will be "Lessons from Calvary" At the close of the sermon the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered Any persons desiring to unite with the church will have an opportunity of doing so in the early part of the service In the evening the Baptists and the Methodists will hold service together, Subject for the evening "Some of the lessons to be learned in view of the recent outrages in this city"

Gus Williams has come and gone and left behind him a very creditable impression among the citizens of Colorado Springs He is a comedian that has by careful study succeeded in ranking himself among the first Everything that he does is original showing that he relies upon his own merit and not on that of others His support was as a whole very good and in some respects excellent The bridge scene in the second act surpassed anything that has been set on our opera house stage

Messrs Hoobler & Whaite the proprietors of the skating rink, inform us that they have closed a week's engagement with Messrs Easterbrook and Lawsche, beginning to-morrow night They both rank among the leading professional skaters of the country, and will on each evening during the week give exhibitions of fancy, burlesque and acrobatic skating In consequence of the great expense incurred in obtaining these gentlemen the managers will charge the following prices of admission during their engagement Admission for gentlemen, 25 cents, skates 15 cents, admission for ladies, 10 cents, skates 15 cents. We predict that there will be large audiences at the rink every night this week

Joseph Cook will lecture on Wednesday evening in the First M E church. Subject, Does Death End All? This is generally acknowledged as Mr Cook's greatest lecture. Like all agitators Mr Cook has made blunders and gained the enmity of many But he has done what no man ever did in this country before. For several seasons in succession he has filled Tremont Temple, Boston, at mid day and discussed before mixed audiences the most abstruse themes of religion and philosophy Tickets for Mr Cook's lecture are on sale at Howbert Bros' Buy your tickets early, so as to insure good seats All ticket holders will be admitted to the front part of the house Doors open at 7 30 Lecture will commence promptly at 8
